THIS WEEK: JUNE 6, 2021

Sunday, June 6, 2021:

The Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ

We continue to live into this redemption through our own share in the Body and Blood of Christ. Jesus tells the disciples gathered with him at the table, “This is my blood of the covenant, / which will be shed for many.” We who have received the Lord in bread and wine are called to become the Body of Christ for others. How do you live out this call?

Reflection

At Home in the Upper Room

Hair opened on Broadway the month I turned sixteen. According to its exuberant lyrics, we had just entered a new stage of human development, one marked by “sympathy and trust abounding” in place of “falsehoods or derision.” What awaited those brave enough to shuck off stifling social norms and wholeheartedly embrace life was nothing less than “mystic crystal revelation.”

Twenty-five years later, still woefully unenlightened, I made my first retreat at a contemplative Catholic hermitage. At predawn Vigils, the monks bent forward at the waist, chanting a strange phrase: “Praise the Father, the Word, and the Spirit, the three who are one in heaven / by the Spirit, the Water and the Blood, we are saved and share in their life” (see 1 John 5:6-9).

In the decades since, I have learned from the monks that—unlike the magical transformation promised in the “Age of Aquarius”—conversion of life does not come easy. And “enlightenment” feels more like a new and improved pair of glasses than it does a mystical experience. We set off behind a Water-Bearer, following him bewilderedly down unfamiliar passageways, arriving finally at an unknown destination in a neighborhood we’ve never been before.

But once we climb the stairs to the Upper Room, we realize where we are: finally at home with God where we belong. And thanks to the Spirit, the Water, and the Blood, we can stay and share in this divine life.

UNITED IN MISSION: GOD'S WORK, OUR HANDS

There's a local benefit to the Annual Catholic Appeal, too. Funds beyond our goal will be used to fix cosmetic earthquake damage on our parish grounds, such as the ceiling in the Fellowship Hall. We invite you to practice stewardship and sacrificial giving to help us care for our brothers and sisters in Christ.

Thank you to those who have given already!
